

Leadership Forum

Plan Less and Seize Opportunities

Presented by: Professor John Mills

Tuesday 12 June 2012
12.00 pm - 2.00 pm
Actuaries Institute
Level 7, 4 Martin Place, Sydney 2000

At this event, Professor John Mills will discuss career paths. He will present the case that although some career planning is good, too much planning may result in missed opportunities.

He will also talk about “credentials” (those fancy acronyms after your name) - are they always necessary? How about enthusiasm, common sense and being keen to learn new things? Can these attributes help you move up your career path?

If you want to find out more about seizing your career opportunities, this session is for you.

Professor John Mills is an internationally-known physician, scientist and biomedical businessman. He was born in New York City and trained and worked in the US until 1992 when he migrated to Australia to take up the position of Managing Director of the Burnet Institute in Melbourne. Subsequently John has been involved in patient care, medical research and biomedical business in Australia.

- Places are limited so registration is essential.
- A light lunch will be provided from 12 noon.
- The presentation will start at 12.30pm.

If you wish to join this session via dial-in please email events@actuaries.asn.au for further details.

Register online or via email events@actuaries.asn.au by 5 June 2012.

Find out more about Actuaries Institute events at www.actuaries.asn.au