Irreconcilably different

Monday, 17 November 2014

Welcome to the 2014 Actuaries Institute General Insurance Seminar. Themed as Insuring Tomorrow (Insuring Yesterday did not pass APRA's risk transfer test), the conference will look forward at the changing economic, social and regulatory landscape and ask how actuaries can help. The first job will be explaining what it is that we actually do! A recent linkedin survey has just rated actuaries in the top 3 of the most misunderstood professions in Australia. And that was just amongst the other actuaries! (...OK, we made that last part up).

The conference organisers have assembled a fantastic program. In the opening plenary we consider the challenges faced by insurers in the future, followed by concurrent sessions with more detail on aspects such as the ageing population, motor vehicle innovation, telematics, aggregators and customer behaviour. Michael Pascoe will be facilitating the plenary session, drawing out the key points. His facilitation will be general in nature and will not constitute financial advice.

We ask the tough questions of ourselves. Such as "will my job be offshored within 10 years?" And if not, a session on machine-learning suggests that it might be done by robots anyway.

But on a brighter note, the gala night at the Ritz promises to be a dazzling affair – 1920's glamour and moonshine galore. (What prohibition?) Rumour has it that Daniel Smith and Aaron Cutter will be restaging their infamous frenzied dance-off. View at your own risk - the Institute is not liable for concussions from stray limbs or for any psychological damage caused.

The next two days are a great opportunity to learn, engage, challenge, and connect with each other. Of course, the CPD points aren't bad either. On behalf of the Taylor Fry crew, we hope you have an enjoyable and enriching time.

SMS question

What do you call a group of actuaries? A quarrel? A deviation? A misunderstanding? SMS your best answers to 0410 557 019 – the winning entry receives kudos and a bottle of wine.

Quote of the Day

"I always pass on good advice. It is the only thing to do with it. It is never of any use to oneself."

– Oscar Wilde

Scott Reeves

This male model is confidently sporting a flared jacket and short shorts in appealing lemon chiffon.

He had a ten year run on the Young and the Restless as Ryan McNeil. This portfolio shot shows his emotional range.

Better known as The Notorious B.I.G., this American rapper was gunned down in a drive-by. Damned West-side.

He is the COO of Blocket.se in Sweden. He helped turn this small-town classifieds business into a dominant portal in Europe.
